

DEMURRAGE THAT WORKS BOTH WAYS

SCHOLTS' BILL COVERS SHIPPER AS WELL AS RAILROAD

FAILURE TO UTILIZE CARS WHEN ORDERED

Subjects Shipper to Penalty, Likewise Company for Failure to Furnish

The demurrage bill by Senator Echols, of Elk City, has more force of interest to the small shipper than all others introduced.

Chances are that in the position of a farmer or small shipper who orders cars seldom, he can not appreciate the difficulty that at one time prevailed when cars were scarce.

There was a provision in the old law that a railroad had to furnish cars for a shipper, but the provision provided a penalty for the road that furnished, not for the one asking cars, and for that reason was declared illegal.

Senator Echols' bill provides that a shipper puts up a forfeit for cars, $10 per day for each car ordered, and $10 per day for the road that does not furnish cars after four days notice for same.

In an interview with a representative of The Leader, Senator Echols explained his ideas.

"There has been a tendency in times when cars were very scarce to ignore the small shipper and that tendency has caused more worry and loss to that class than almost any other commercial custom of the present day."

"I propose to make the man who orders pay a penalty for failing to utilize cars when they are set aside for his own private use, and also to make the road ordered from pay a like penalty for failure to provide."

"It is a mistake to classify common carriers as other lines of business. If they have orders for cars and have not the cars to use, it is their fault, for the freight rate is sufficient to pay for usage, and the return on the investment is sufficient to satisfy the most conservative railroad investor."

"I do not agree with the prevalent idea that a railroad corporation be indiscriminately legislated against but it is a fact of common notoriety that roads favor the large shipper. It even being charged that in some instances the roads were in close collusion with the big shippers who were operating the business of products to the general markets by producers, and that charge, true or false, would be obstructed by the passage of this bill."

Another measure introduced by Echols is to dispense with the services of the rail inspector.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the inspection system has been the means of building up a monopoly for the Standard Oil, although the inspector might be the most honest of men.

Only the Standard can afford to arrange and stand the costs provided, and until such time as the independent man is prohibited by law from competing, the Standard puts out a standard that no one can compete with—once the field is clear, charges any price it sees fit, and provides the lowest possible grade of oil and by products.

Many Texas refiners who have withdrawn the competition on account of favorable legislation against the monopoly in Texas, desire to compete in this state and, if the act introduced by Echols prevails, they can do so.

Neither of the measures are partisan, and no one has advanced an opinion on their introduction. That they will, when before the house, attract attention and wide discussion is beyond doubt, but that they will prevail is certain, mostly anticipated by those who are in position to explain the workings of that line of commerce.

of the Billings hotel yesterday afternoon, crying that she was an adventuress and had robbed him of his money. He was ordered from the hotel and later the woman was arrested on a charge of theft preferred by the man.

Hall and the woman, apparently strangers, came to the hotel yesterday morning. He registered as Stull Hall of Cincinnati, Ohio, and she as Miss Wilson, of Guthrie. They were assigned to different rooms and nothing was heard from them until the man rushed wildly into the lobby calling for the police and denouncing the woman.

The woman called a cab after the assault and left the hotel for the Police station, where she was arrested by the police a half-hour later on a warrant signed by W. B. Hall. When questioned at police headquarters the woman gave her name as Miss Marie Fisher of San Antonio, Texas.

"We spent the afternoon together in a room in the Billings hotel," said the man. "I fell asleep and when I awoke the woman was gone and so was $75 which I had in my pocket. I looked in both our rooms and then made for the lobby."

Miss Fisher, or Miss Wilson refused to discuss her relations with Hall. "I just met him, that's all," she said. She is small and a decided brunette, with dark hair and eyes.

SEASONED WARRIOR'S LOVE DREAM BUSTED

General W. E. Hardy, eight months ago, standing beside my beloved wife here, I feel that the 32 years through which I have passed count for nothing. For as happy as a fifteen year-old boy."

Six months later, (General W. E. Hardy) confidentially speaking with a friend: "I feel that marriage has been a failure, and a divorce must ultimately result."

(From the Ponca City Courier.) General W. E. Hardy has filed suit for divorce in the district court at Newkirk, from the wife he married less than a year ago. The general is thirty years old and the defendant is fifty. Before her marriage Mrs. Hardy was Mrs. May Ware, and lived with her daughter, Mrs. Anna Harris, at Eighteenth street and Quindara boulevard, Kansas City, Kans. After the marriage, everything went well, according to the deposition taken in the case, until the daughter of the defendant went to Newkirk to visit her mother.

While there she attempted to persuade the general to desert several houses and lots, which he owned there, to her mother. This he refused to do, and according to the testimony, the refusal caused a general quarrel. During this fight it is claimed that about $20 worth of dishes were broken over the old man's head.

As a result, he was badly injured and confined to his bed for several days. This trouble occurred in September. The day after the dish breaking episode, Mrs. Hardy and her daughter started for Kansas City.

General Hardy is a prominent man in Oklahoma. He was a delegate to the convention that consummated the treaty between the government and the Kaw Indians, and is an intimate friend of Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas. From the government he inherited valuable lands, but at the present time his estate is reduced to almost a pittance. General Hardy is a thirty-third degree Mason. He has five sons and three daughters living in Oklahoma.

NORVELL STARTED SOMETHING

VIGOROUSLY ATTACKS CONFISCATION SECTION IN BOOZE BILL

VICIOUS AS FEDERAL LAW HE DECLARES

Other Members Add Protest and Obnoxious Clause is Eliminated

Section 31, of the booze bill was the occasion of much fervid oratory in the house yesterday afternoon. This section provided for the confiscation of horses, mules, wagons and all vehicles used in transporting liquors, and also buildings used in the sale thereof.

Norvell's motion to strike out the section was productive of the warmest debate of the afternoon. He stated that it was merely an enactment of federal statutes as formerly in force in Indian Territory.

He stated that this property was frequently mortgaged to an innocent third party, who could be grossly wronged under the action of this section. He made a strong and effective plea against the section, Tillotson taking a similar position. A motion to table Norvell's amendment was lost.

In discussing the section Skeen opposed it, telling how it would deprive women and children of property that he earned on account of the wrong doing of the husband and father. I Ashley said he had heard that the section was written by a preacher, but that he did not believe it. He said no man with the love of God and his fellow man in his heart could write such an abomination. "But, of course," he concluded, "he might have a license to preach."

On a vote Norvell's motion was carried and the section strikes out. Section 32 was adopted without amendment, and the committee of the whole arose and reported.

A communication was read from President Page, of the colored university at Langston, asking the appointment of a committee to visit the institution. A motion that this be done was carried.

Some routine work was rushed through and the speaker adjourned the house until nine o'clock this morning.

THE FARMER AND HOME INDUSTRIES

There is not a class of citizens in Oklahoma that would be benefited as much by the development of the natural resources of the state as would the farmer. Heretofore the farmer in Oklahoma has been at the double disadvantage of being obliged to send his produce out of the state while he has to buy his manufactured articles abroad and with a freight in. This of course means that he has received a low price for his crops and has paid a high price for what he has bought, for in addition to the manufacturer's profit and a dealer's profit, he has always paid excessive freight rates.

All this will be changed when Oklahoma begins to manufacture her home products. When the vast deposits of gypsum, salt, clay, asphalt, lime, Portland cement rock, glass sand, and other valuable deposits are better worked up into articles which will be sold to the farmer at a much less price than he is now paying, the army of workmen will create a demand for all sorts of farm, orchard and garden products and create a home market.

There are thousands of farmers in Oklahoma today who know by experience that there is more money in such crops as fruits, berries, truck and vegetables, than in wheat or cotton. They will welcome any plan that will provide a home market for Oklahoma products.

If there is any plan more feasible for developing a home market than in developing home industries it has not yet been found. There is no reason why we should continue to send our money to other states for the things we might just as well make at home.

If the legislature is awake to the conditions confronting the people of Oklahoma, it will not fail to provide some plan for the speedy development of the resources of the state.

Special to Daily Leader.
El Reno, Okla., Jan. 15.—With her eyes burned out and her body almost a solid mass of blistered flesh falling from the bones, Mrs. Sam Freed saved her two-year-old baby from an operation, while her husband, a clothing cleaner, was burned to a crisp in a fire which destroyed their cottage home. Mrs. Freed can not recover. The fire started from a gasoline explosion.

Freed took some clothing home with him to clean at noon. His wife was cooking dinner when he arrived. He filled a bucket with gasoline and started through the kitchen to begin work. As he passed the stove the gasoline exploded, throwing fire over the entire room. Freed was found where he fell and it is presumed death came almost instantly.

The wife ran screaming from the burning cottage to the back yard without being touched by the fire. Remembering that her two-year-old son, Harry, was still in the house, she dodged neighbors who attempted to detain her and entered the house, which was now aflame in every room.

A few seconds later she stumbled from the front door, her dress afire and her eyes burned out, but clasp tightly the baby boy, who was unharmed.

Freed was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge and carried $2,000 in insurance in the Woodmen of the World.

With both legs and arms burned completely off and the head and trunk burned and charred beyond recognition, Freed's body was removed from the ruins of the cottage and sent to an undertaker's, Mrs. Freed is in a local hospital.
